Through January 11

"Things Known and Things Unknown": All six of my images in this exhibition utilize the Photo Luminism technique, a method I devised for creating complex abstractions of light. It involves rehearsed manipulation of the camera, settings and lens, whilst the sensor is exposed to 'lightscapes' that have been meticulously crafted or chosen specifically to recreate an image in my mind. My intention with this series is to show an elusive side of light that the human eye cannot perceive on its own, and in so doing evoke a sense of awe and wonder, stimulating thought and conversation. —Christopher Kennedy

"Patagonia: Nature's Elements as Adversaries": I am a photographer who captures the peace and tranquility of nature through clean, uncluttered composition. I make attentive use of space and natural light, and my images are designed to provide a visual escape for others, a refuge from the stress and chaos of modern life. My photographs range from serene landscapes and seascapes to dramatic black and white images and beautiful color abstracts. I travel extensively and will be exhibiting select black and white images from Patagonia in this series. —Richard Sherman

Annual Small Works Show

Highlands Art Gallery
41 North Union Street, Lambertville, NJ
908-766-2720 www.highlandsartgallery.com
Through December 31

With the holidays right around the corner, the gallery has many small paintings and sculpture, perfect for gift giving. The subject matter is quite diverse, from still life to landscapes, even some dogs and cats! For the person who has everything (everyone has one) there is the option to have a painting commissioned of a pet, car, boat, vacation spot or loved one. There is still time, but don't delay.

Shopping With the Artists

Red Tulip Gallery
19C West Bridge St., New Hope, PA
267-454-0496 www.RedTulipCrafts.com
December 3, 5pm-9pm

Gift giving is on everyone's mind at this time of year, but finding the ideal gift can be difficult. Red Tulip helps make your choice easier with a broad selection of hand-made fine craft from local artists. Shop with the artists while enjoying a glass of wine and holiday snacks.

Red Tulip Gallery is an artists' cooperative gallery featuring the work of nearly 30 members of the Bucks County Guild of Craftsmen. All work is hand-crafted by the gallery members.

A wooden bowl by Bernard Hohlfeld for your mother, a pair of Monique Perry's silver enameled cufflinks for your husband, a ceramic serving plate by Merle Slyhoff for your wife, a Santa by Nancy Gibbs to set on your fireplace, a pair of earrings by Adrienne Romano for your best friend... just a few of the many items.

Merle Slyhoff, a member artist, commented: "It's always a unique shopping experience at Red Tulip, but on 'Shopping With the Artists' night the shopper will have the opportunity to interact with a number of the artists, to ask questions, to get help putting together a gift package."
